FOURTH OF JULY MEET TO BE HELD TONIGHT

A dozen people attended the meeting at the city hall Wednesday evening to discuss the matter of having a Fourth of July celebration this year. The same trouble is being encountered that was met two years ago and that is getting the townspeople to take enough interest in the celebration early. It took four meeting two years ago to get the proper degree of enthusiasm aroused

V. V. Foley, who interviewed the business interests reported that everyone was willing to contribute as much as formerly, but that there were not going to be many active workers in the cause of putting it over. The lack of active workers is hampering the work of getting things under way, the good workers having been frazzled from having to carry the load of previous celebrations.

The main fear seems to be that there will not be enough attendance to warrant holding the celebration, in spite of the fact that Lake Vera will be entertaining many hundreds at that time.

Another meeting is scheduled for tonight at the city hall.

EXCLUSION HEARINGS START JUNE 18 WISKERISM LOOKS TO BE ON WANE

Parliamentary Maneuvering Prevents Placer County Exclusion Hearing Friday Coming Into Open Meeting; Director Threatens Nugget With Libel Suit About Rubber Stamp

In a meeting replete with verbal exchanges and parlimentary maneuering to keep attorney T. L. Chamberlain of Auburn from giving open expression to his exclusion matters, the session conducted by the manager of The Nevada Irrigation District on Friday afternoon was a sizzling one and even extended to the point of one of the directors engaging the publisher of The Nugget in violent conversation and charging the existence of possible libel in his being called a rubber stamp.

The meeting was called to order after the stage was properly set and the manager had made his customary dramatic entrance. The meeting was called to order by chairman J. A. Teagarden after which the manager assumed the role of director in chief and held the floor until his proposed adjournment had been put over.

He opened by stating that some protests had been received against granting the exclusion of the Placer county petitioners and proceeded to read them. The substance of the first one was that the lands in question could be irrigated by the NID, that none of the property is entitled to service, that works constructed or being constructed will provide ample water service. The signers were headed by C. J. Rolph, Jr., and A. L. Wisker. Another petition stated that the financial stability of the District would be seriously impaired by the exclusion and was quite numerously signed including district employees. Another one was from some of the bond owners and was signed by F. H. Tibbetts and Harold Wood, employes of the district. The director general then proceeded to inform the board how they should proceed and wound up by having the spectators stand enmasse and be sworn in by M. Henry Argall, notary public. He then to forestall any prolonged exposition of the matters at stake in the exclusion petitions suggested that an executive session of the attorneys be staged until 3 o'clock to go over the matters.

After recess it was announced that owing to further petitions for exclusion being in the making that an adjournment of the hearngs would be continued to Monday, June 18th, at which time continuous hearings would be had until the matter was threshed out. This was agreed to by attorneys for both sides. One of the directors then asked how the continuance would affect the proposed sale of the bonds set for next Tuesday and was informed that nobody was going to buy any bonds anyway while litigation was pending and that the exclusion matter would have to be settled. This was the first explosion of the meeting as cash is urgently needed for taking care of the growing deficit.

The manager announced that the quo warranto proceedings instituted with the attorney general of the state for the exclusion of the entire Placer county area was the most serious obstacle to contend with in the sale of bonds.

At this juncture C. J. Rolph, president of the Nevada County Farm Bureau sprung the expected bombshell in the form of resolutions passed at the meeting of the directors on Wednesday night at which time the manager of the District was present. These being the only resolutions the manager's failing cause from the civic bodies of either county, they were read by Mr. Rolph. They suggested the continued employment of the present management until next February. They lambasted by innuendo Messrs. Mulcahey and Schwartz, minority members of the board of directors of the District, and claimed that their usefulness as directors was past and recommended their removal from office. They admitted that possibly mistakes had been made by the engineering and legal staffs and that maybe the management had done the same. They called for the appointment of a capable outside man as manager whenever a change is made.

The closing paragraph in the document was noteworthy in that it stated that the resolutions were not made at the behest of any official of the Irrigation District. With the reported presence of the manager at the meeting at which the resolutions were adopted and a speaker, this clause was somewhat superfluous.

With this sole recommedatory document out of the way, Director Theodore Schwartz took the floor to denounce the article appearing in the last issue of the Farm Bureau monthly, edited by C. J. Rolph. He referred to the chaperonage of the manager over the board and stated that on only one occasion had the majority members of the board taken issue with the manager, in the matter of the Tarr ditch. The manager replied with some heat that he had no sustained support from the majority members of the board for the past eighteen months and that he had been hog tied. Schwartz stated that he was not working according to Rolph or the Farm Bureau and that the directors were sold out on the PED plan as the company had failed to finance. Mr. Teagarden attempted to pour oil on the troubled waters at this juncture and stated that the board wanted to do justice to everybody. He asked that any plans be placed in writing and that something constructive be accomplished.

J. L. Rollins of Colfax, proponent of power rights on the Bear river arose to ask the privilege of appearing before the board with a plan of development on that river which would be a money saver. The manager to smother any prolonged argument stated that he and Mr. Tibbets had wasted a lot of good time on Dr. Rollins' "chimerical dream". Dr. Rollins retorted that apparently a great deal of time had not within his knowledge been spent. Mr. Teagarden asked that the plan be put in writing for the board to consider.

At this juncture Director Ullrich arose and remarked that he noticed A. A. Willoughby of The Nevada City Nugget in the audience and demanded that he stand up, and announce the authorship of the article in which he, Ullrich, was labeled a rubber stamp. On receiving the information, and asked if he wanted to be called a stronger one he stated that he was consulting his attorney with respect to instituting libel proceedings. A feeble amen from the front row greeted his sally and he ceased from further remarks.

Mr. Teagarden stated that inasmuch as the board had been under contract until Monday with regard to the power resources of the District, it had been able to do nothing. The meeting broke up about this time as an open affair.

Strong applause greeted the remarks made by Director Schwartz which must have been heartening to this champion of the people's rights.

The Nugget was highly commended for its courageous stand by many of the farmers present at the meeting and it will continue to battle for the people's rights. It has not yet begun to train its heavy batteries.

HARRY ENGELBRIGHT IS HOME FROM CONGRESS

Congressman and Mrs. Harry L. Engelbright returned Wednesday morning from Washington where Mr Englebright represented this congressional district in a brilliant manner during the recent session. He will be actively engaged the next few months in promoting his campaign for reelection but it is not anticipated that he will have any opposition. Nevada City is proud of her native son, who has made such a sterling record for his opening stay of what promises to be a brilliant career.

F. S. Powell, prominent candidate for supervisor from the fifth district, was over from Truckee the past week on matters connected with the quieting of title to the biulding of the Odd Fellows in his home city.

WESTERN MERGER HAS ANOTHER GOOD CLEANUP

The second cleanup at the Western Merger mill was made last week and and was reported around $4000 to $5000. The run was lessened by the making of experiemntal runs of ore and some waste through the mill. High grade and concentrates were shipped to Selby for treatment the past week which will bring the operating revenue up in fine shape.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS FINE GRADUATION EXERCISES

In one of the finest graduating exercises in the history of the Nevada City High School, twenty one young men and women were given their diplomas at the Nevada Theatre on Thursday night. The theatre was packed for the occasion and generous applause was given the various numbers on the program.

The Senior Class President's Address was given by Elzear Rochus Foley and evoked much laughter by its witticisms. Ruth Marie Tamblyn, who won second honors for her scholarship standings was accorded the privilege of delivering the salutatory and she responded in a fitting manner. Katherine R. McClish, who has set a marvelous scholarship record during high school work was the valedictorian and her brief remarks were warmly received. She was also the receipient of a life membership in the California Scholarship Honor Society as well as the Hauber Scholarship at the University of California.

Owing to the regrettable absence of P. G. Scadden, a member of the board of education, the diplomas were presented by Principal A. F. Isensee in a charming manner.

The address of the occasion was delivered by John F. Engle, head of the Auburn school for many years. His remarks were well calculated to point out to the graduates the need of their giving careful attention to their personal habits and to their preparation for meeting the duties of active life, in this age of high specialization.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. John Telfer. Scott Rundy rendered a very pleasing violin number while the senior class orchestra was roundly applauded for its offering.

One of the pleasing features of the evening was the presentation to Miss Agnes Nelson, class advisor, of a beautiful ostrich plume fan, by the members of the class, the presentation being made by Mr. Elzear Foley. Another feature noted was the absence of importunities to buy the school annual, the supply havng been nearly exhausted prior to the exercises, due to the early delivery of the edition by The Nugget, ten days prior to the exercises.

GOOD PROGRESS IN TURPENTINE IS BEING SHOWN

Development of the Pine Products Industry seems to show favorable progress. Last week another quantity of gum was collected from trial tracts and Ernst states that some of the trees have given an exceptionally good yield. A quantity of cups were filled to the top, while ordinarily they are only expected to fill in about three weeks' time. However nothing definite can be determined about the flow until later next month.

Mr. F. C. Ernst states that more speed should be shown by some of the timber owners in signing up contracts so that the industry can be definitely assured. There are still about 300,000 trees necesssary to assure the establishment of the plant. The U. S. Government, Forest Service and State Forestry officials all endorse the plan of chipping the trees without injuring them. In fact Ernst guarantees in writing to pay $5 per thousand feet, B. M. for any damage done. Furthermore the owners can cut timber for mining and other purposes wherever they want and it appears that such an industry will mean a big advantage to Nevada county and the remaining timber owners should lose no time in signing up the contracts.

The display in The Nugget window illustrating the method of tapping and extraction of the gum has been attracting a great deal of attention. Timber owners with available tracts should get in touch with Mr. Ernst at once and assure themselves of a steady income year in and year out.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Although it was Pennsylvania Engine Company's turn this year to name the chief for the fire department from among its own members, the company members on Wednesday night unanimously waived their privilege in view of the splendid service being rendered the department by Chief Miles D. Coughlin and nominated him to succeed himself. Coughlin is a member of Nevada Company, No. 1.

Other officers chosen at the annual election on Wednesday night were Forrest Penrose, assistant chief; Herbert Hallett, foreman; A. A. Willoughby 1st assistant chief; R. C. Rossen, 2nd assistant chief; W. M. Gracey, treasurer, and E. J. Kilroy, secretary.

A tempting collation was served at the close of the evening session by Foreman Hallett to which ample justice was paid.

NILON PAYS A TRIBUTE TO THOMAS HOGAN'S MEMORY

The meeting of the Nevada City Lions Club on Tuesday was conducted as a memorial meeting for the death of one of its charter members, Thomas F. Hogan. Judge Frank T. Nilon was the eulogist and in one of his beautiful charateristic addresses told of the high esteem in which the departed brother was held in the hearts and minds of the people of this community in which Mr. Hogan had spent so many years.

SILLY PROPAGANDA FROM FARM BUREAU

THE FOLLOWING TWADDLE from the current issue of the Nevada County Farm Bureau monthly should be or direct interest to the tax payers of Nevada City and the portions of this county which are not included within the boundaries of the Nevada Irrigation District as they are being taxed to keep up the farm bureau through the county supervisors. The following is the story:

N. I. D. OWNERS. IMPORTANT!

"Nevada District has weathered an important crisis by passing, by a satisfying majority, the $2,596,000 bond issue, thus preserving the financial stability of the organization and providing funds for advance steps in construction. But another crisis threatens.

"It is definitely known that the health of the district's manager is not of the best and that it will be but a short time, at most, until he will be forced to give up his position. To the 'wrecking crew,' that group who have consistently opposed the manager and his policies (for personal gain, we suspect) this will present a favorable opportunity to gain control of the district.

"The air is filled with rumors that this 'gang' are holding meetings and have already slated a man of their own choosing to replace the present manager. It is also rumored that efforts have been made to 'line up' at least a part of the Board of Directors on this nefarious scheme. Street talk has it that the schemers are town residents who have a reputation for being behind anything of a public nature where there is an opportunity to wreak personal gain.

"If the farmers and other residents of Nevada District are content to let the management of this tremendous enterprise for which they are financially responsible, rest in the hands of three or four men conniving for personal gain, no more need be said. If on the other hand, they believe they should have something to say regarding their own project, they should assert themselves to the directors who are supposed to represent them."

FOR AN INSTITUTION which is supported at public expense from the taxpayers generally, the publishing of mere street rumors and street gossip in an organ such as the farm bureau monthly, should be looked into. Really, now, the best evidence of who the wrecking crew is, is seen in the financial status of the Nevada Irrigation District today. A princely sum of money spent and the treasury reported around $400,000 in the hole!

ANENT THE ABOVE article, it is a plea for sympathy for the discredited management of the NID which has plunged the District into such a finacial bog. In the first place, the expression of the less than 500 favorable votes in favor of the outlaw bond issue in the amount of $2,592,000, may still go for naught as not a dollar's worth will be permitted to be sold, by the authorities charged with the protection of the bond buying public, until such time as proper request has been made of the state bond certification commission for permission to issue and sell such bonds. Such request has not been made, according to our best information, and it is not a certainty that such permission will be given, if asked, until such time as it can be satisfactorily shown where the money is coming from to retire the new bond issue. Those who are assuring the directors that they are safe in going ahead without doing business with the bond certification commission, are, in our opinion, handing out some bum advice and putting the District in bad with the state authorities. The first bond issue of seven and a quarter million dollars is not going to be vitiated with further issues which have no real earning power to warrant their issuance.

THE WRECKING CREW, that favorite phrase, may yet be applied to the District management which has brought this distressing condition about and it is unfortunate that the farm bureau is being used as a catspaw to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the manager and his expensive crew of tax eaters. The scene on Wednesday night in a room in Grass Valley when the silver tongued orator was doubtless urging his listeners into taking up the cudgels of defense in his behalf as has been the case in the past, was an interesting one. You can readily imagine who were present from the rural districts for the star chamber conference. The manager is hard pushed to find many organizations outside his pet propaganda organization, the farm bureau, to take up the burden.

THE WISECRACKS about a slate being made up to put in place of the present management and gang meetings being held should be substantiated by more definite information than reprinting mere hearsay. The Nugget doubts if any organized movement is under way. There is no doubt but that things will move swiftly once the present management is put in the discard and the death grip on the payroll is shaken loose. The closing paragraph is eloquent in the article and really bears out what this paper has been long striving for, that the District should not be left in the hands of three or four men conniving for personal gain. The article was not intended that way, to be sure, having been written, doubtless, by the right bower of the management. The sooner the farm bureau gets on the right track and helps to clean out the management which has plunged the District into such financial difficulties, the sooner it will justify its right to be supported by the taxpayers of this county generally. The sooner this comes about, the sooner a balance can be struck of what has been actually accomplished with all that the millions that have been spent and some or much of which may have been wasted, in giving us an irrigation district. Giving aid and comfort to the expensive tax eaters at this juncture will make the pill all the harder to swallow later.

JUST WHY THE CANCELLATION OF THE PED CONTRACT IS NOT BEING PUT ON THE COUNTY RECORDS where the numerous contracts between the Directors and the Penniless enterprise have been previously recorded, is causing a great deal of comment and wonderment. It is a supposition that the promoters hope to reinstate the PED contract at a later date by some hocus pocus. In fact it was stated that telegrams were being sent to Washington in the hope that the Department of the Interior would see what a simon pure article the District was now with the PED barnacle brushed off. Let's see that cancellation formally put on record and wipe the secret juggling of the District resources off the map for ever. The housecleaning is moving along smoothly toward a proper climax and the end is not far away. Then the District can begin to function normally, as it should. Engelbright Gives Comprehensive Survey of Mining

A large percentage of the metal-mining industry in the United States has reached a somewhat critical and baffling stage. The pioneer period has passed. In a country before the virgin mineral resources are developed simple methods of prospecting often reveal large mineral deposits in rapir succession, many of them exposed on the surface and only awaiting the prospector's pick. Many of the deposits of this country were thus discovered and developed into large and productive mines, which have passed through the successive stages of cheap mining of rich oxidized ores at the surface, to the mining of primary ores at depth, where the cost of recovery, even with the best of modern methods, may soon exceed the market value of the product. As As time has passed, fewer and fewer new deposits have been found. By far the greater number of the big metal mines of the United States were in operation within two generations after the discovery of gold in California. The finding of new ore bodies, on the whole, is becoming more difficult and the difficulty may be expected to increase. The problem of maintaining production involves increasing skill in ore finding and increasing skill in the use of lower-grade material. The leaders in the mineral industry are acutely aware of this necessity, even though the rest of the country may be resting in contented oblivion of the facts. The present problems of metal mining are great. Mr. Speaker, I challenge anyone here present to name half a dozen great mines that have been developed in the last decade. The industry is rapidly changing. To sustain production now, large mines, low costs, and big outputs are essential. The exhaustion of bonanzas, the depletion of those resources and conditions that readily attract the prospector and pioneer, have brought about a condition that introduces great organic, financial, mechanical, and scientific problems.

The mining industry vitally needs every assistance that can be rendered to it by the United States Geological Survey and the Bureau of Mines. These two governmental agencies, within the means of their comparatively very limited annual appropriations, are doing their utmost to meet the demands made upon them, for it is realized that the maintenance of metal mining is not merely an ambitious local project; it is part of a necessary national program to safeguard the continuance of national prosperity.

The best protection for the future, apparently, lies in the development of technology. There are two ways to add to the available mineral resources. The first is to discover additional bodies of material of the grade now being worked. This requires the development of new methods of prospecting and the accumulation, coordination, and analysis of additional geological data. The second method of adding to our resources is to improve methods of mining, milling, treatment, management, and financing so as to make available ore that is now considered waste rock. This has been done and can be done. Millions of tons of "ore" was added to the reserves or the Homestake Mine when syanidation was made applicable there as effectively as though a new ore body had been found. With changes in mining methods which resulted in ower costs at the Miami Mine other millions of tons of ore came into being. The whole success of the so-called prophyry coppers, now the main reliance of the world for copper, was obtained by adapting methods so as to make available as ore that was of no value before because of the cost of production. Even so, 30 per cent of the copper now coming out is produced from material of such low grade that it was not taken into account when the first great prophyry mine was put into operation. New applications of selective flotation have added greatly to the available tonnage of lead and zinc within the

(Siskiyou News)

MONTAGUE, It is announced here at the offices of the Montague Water Conservation District that the District's large construction work will be completed within 70 days. Then the wheels will begin to turn for the land owners who have need of water.

This will mark the end of the first epoch in a large undertaking that has at times been tedious and uncertain, but for which there has been plenty of dogged determination that has not long been restrained by obstacles, of which there are always many in projects of the kind.

More Than Enough Money

The officers of the district take the greatest pride in the realization now that there will be more than enough money—an exceptional thing as it is almost a moral certainty that an irrigation district will run over its estimate. This situation is made all the more remarkable by the disturbed condition of the bond market which forced the district to accept $75,000 less on the $1,395,000 sale than was reckoned by the directors of the district, who lay the outcome primarily to the fact that they have taken no junketing trips and that the engineering work has been sound, practical and economical; in other words "a good job." ....

(Well, well it is refreshing to find that all the alleged wreckers aren't located down in Nevada County. Apparently the directors up there were permitted to have a bit to say about about how a district should be run instead of being expected to be a set of dummies. —Ed.)

Engelbright Gives Comprehensive Survey of Mining past three years, and many other instances might be sighted to prove that research actually does result in greater and more economical production.

National promotion of the collection and dissemination of scientific knowldege has long been a fundamental policy of our Government. Research i order to apply the result of scietific study to industry has likewise been accepted os a responsibility of general government.

As has been demonstrated, the pdoducts of the mineral industry, when they reach the consumer, contribute about one-quarter of the total value of all our national products, and the agricultural products likewise about one-quarter. At the present time the raw products of agriculture are valued at about $12,000,000,000 annually. The Federal Government provides for the Department of Agriculture annual appropriations of about $128,000,000, yet the mineral industry with its annual production of raw material valued at $6,000,000,000 and directly supporting 11,000,000 people, with its manufactured products valued at $22,000,000,000 and supporting an additional 12,500,000 people, only received for its advancement from the Federal Government annual appropriations of about $4,000,000. The importance of mining and the problems confronting the industry surely demands that appropriations for development and research in its behalf should be more than one thirty-seventh of the amount appropriated for agriculture. Gentlemen of the House, by this statement I do not in any manner intend to reflect upon the necessity of the amounts appropriated for the advancement of the agriculture industry.

The appropriations made for agriculture are wisely made and necessary for the proper protection and development of that great industry. I am only endeavoring to impress upon you by direct comparison, and rightly so, the fact that the mining and mineral industry of this Nation is not receiving from Congress the recognition and support that as a great basic industry it deserves and should receive. The difference between $128,000,000 and $4,000,000 is too obvious for comment. The importance of both agriculture and mining are equally obvious.

From a national standpoint there are a vast number of problems affecting the mining and minreal industry which await study and solution. In the United States, we now have the largest per capita consumption of coal, iron, copper, lead, zinc, and a long list of other minerals. This per capita consumption increases yearly so that, aside from any production for export and as a basis for foreign trade, our mines must be prepared to produce larger and larger amounts of all the common minerals, increasing not only in direct proportion to population, but at a substantially higher ratio. Between a fixed limited supply and a steadily growing demand there is an irreconcilable discrepancy. It matters little whether the known supply in reserve can be measured in terms of 5 or 10 years, although for many of the important minerals the known reserves of ore would fall somewhere within that period. Whatever the period, it remains true that within the lifetime of those now living it will be necessary to find large supplies now undiscovered and to make major changes in technology to permit production from grades now far below the economic limit.

Large amounts of iron ore, too low grade to profitably work under present practice, await the discovery of economical methods of concentration.

The future development of a profitble iron and steel industry on the Pacific coast depends largely on the efforts of the technical investigator.

In northern Minnesota immense tonnages of manganese are being marketed as a part of the iron ore in which they occur. This mineral is essential in the manufacture of steel Proper research should be able to economically recover and make this indispensable mineral an asset.

In 1915 the gold production of this country was $101,035,700. Since the said year our annual gold production has rapidly and steadily declined. In 1926 the gold production of the country was $48,270,000, repersenting a decline of over 50 per cent in 10 years. At the present rate of decline within a comparatively short period of years, the United States will become practically a nongold producing Nation. The present decrease of gold production demands serious consideration, as the maintenance of a sufficient gold reserve is essential to the security of our national finance and credit. The United States is at present the most favored nation in regard to gold reserves, holding over $3,000,000,000, or more than one-third of the gold stock of the world, but it has contracted debts on a gold basis of many times that existing before the war.

T. E. FARROW W. M. SELL, Jr.

Auburn, California,

An open letter to the Directors of the Nevada Irrigation District..

Under date of May 28th Mr. A. L. Wisker broadcasted a letter to the public of Nevada Irrigation District, wherein he referred to certain "discord" among the Board of Directors and "Sinister interests working for the benefit of power companies," and intimated that the irrigation ship is about to sink, and invites expression of opinion on the subject of "saving the ship by Farm Centers, Chambers of Commerce and similar bodies, personally, by letter to district," etc., etc., and he does not want any "soothing syrup" or "pussy-footing." Fine, that just suits me, so here goes.

I agree with Mr. Wisker that we should have a "House cleaning," and the first thing to clean out is that P. E. D. contract. It is rumored that the contract has been cancelled. I hope so for the day that contract was announced was the day the district's troubles started. And the day it is or was cancelled is the day we start to retrieve the district's fortunes.

I believe that this is a good time for Farm Centers and Chambers of Commerce to go away back and sit down and keep still and let the tax payers of the district work out their own problems in their own way.

To that end, gentlemen, I suggest that you call a meeting a soon as convenient, of the actual taxpayers of Nevada Irrigation District. That you lay before the taxpayers at that meeting a true statement of the affairs of the district, both financial and otherwise. That the District Engineer be in attendance at that meeting to answer as to completion of works, progress of work and any other questions pertaining to the engineering department, that any taxpayer in attendance may feel disposed to ask. To the end that the taxpayers may have a clear, full and free understanding of the obligations and responsibilities they have assumed. And when they have seen the picture as it is, they will then be in a position to make plans for the future.

Confidence in the district's management has been very much impaired. Restore confidence and objectors will yanish and the district will survive. John A. Livingston.

Editor The Nugget:—

O YOU SWIMMING POOL

My memory is somewhat poor, but you remember boys, way back in August, 1926, I believe it was, we thought it would be a nice thing to have a swimming pool—something close in that would be a credit and a source of enjoyment to the town, so we voted $10,000 for it by a large majority and we were so anxious to get it that some of us wished it could have been built right away.

The summer of 1927 came and departed, and still no pool; all that transpired was a cat and dog fight as to whether the pool would be built in the shade of a telephone pole at the plaza, where the sons of rest could exercise their eyes without moving too far, or whether at a more appropriate site situated among the trees and vegetaton which nature has so abundantly supplied us.

And when the hot days of summer came again last year it actually looked as though something was going to be done. They even went so far as to get an option on a very desirable site and this site was chosen above all others by a vote of about five to one. But again things dragged on, the option was allowed to expire, with trustees representing opposing factions, each seemed loth to even talk about the matter.

Now here we are again in sizzling weather and not a move made to do anything. Some of the trustees who don't believe in bathing say the money should go into the streets, or sewers or something else—anywhere but where it in all justice belongs. In the meantime the engineer on these bonds runs on and already perhaps $500 has gone for that purpose and the people haven't a bit of benefit from it—enough to pay for the upkeep of the pool for a year.

Some of the trustees even want to put us to the expense again of another election to see if we will vote the same way. We notice that when we voted them into office they didn't stop and ask us if we were sure we hadn't made a mistake.

If Griffins wooden Indian only had four brothers we could place them as city trustees and at least depend upon them standing together.

Sapolio.

LICENSE FEES STILL ON

The recent attempt of the N. I. D. management to have the hearing reopened before the Department of the Interior for the removal of federal license fees for use of government land with the ditch system has failed according to word from Washington and the attorney of the District will fail to receive his side money of $10,000 which the directors generously voted to present him should the attempt be successful in having the fees removed.

The District manager in his mental peregrinations over the loss of the hearing severely castigates the Department of the Interior in his customary statement to the press and takes occasion to flay Assistant Secretary C. E. Finney whom he charges with the foul deed. He also refers to the clashes with the Federal Power Commission which he charged at the Van Giesan dam celebration with having cost the District around a million dollars.

The nub of the whole matter is not with the federal government, but the fault can be laid at the door of the District management which proposed in a secret deal with the directors to convert the resources of the District to his own private gain through the PED contract which has largely been the cause of the controversy with the Interior Department. The Federal Power Commission has been adverse to the large water grants made under the Richardson administration for diversion of the waters of the Middle Yuba into another watershed and depriving the San Juan Ridge and Yuba and Sutter counties of the natural stream flow.

The diversion of the water has caused the use of the government land and the District will have to pay around a quarter of a million dollars for the fifty year grant. The recent cancellation of the PED contract did not arouse the degree of enthusiasm in Wasoington which it was hoped it would, the presidential election being a larger topic of interest.

LARGE CONCOURSE AT TOM HOGAN OBSEQUIES

The passing of Tom Hogan last week removed one of Nevada City's best loved business men. His many friends had followed his last illness for a number of months in the hope that he might recover, but the hopes were vain.

Mr. Hogan was born September 4, 1870 in Grass Valley and had spent his entire life in this section. He was for 13 years foreman in the Idaho-Maryland mine and seven years in the Empire and in such capacity gained wide renown for his ability and lovable disposition. He left mining to become deputy county treasurer under H. S. Lord and after a four year term elected treasurer for four years. He was a candidate for the office of sheriff and made a close run. He engaged in the shoe business with Mr. Lord and later took over the entire business which he conducted up to the time of his death. He served two terms as city trustee of Nevada City. He was also associated with Ray Pengelly in the shoe business in Grass Valley.

St. Canice's Catholic church was crowded Wednesday morning when a solemn requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul, the Rev. Fr. O'Reilly being the cielbrant. He also delivered a fine address. The remains were taken to Grass Valley for interment.

The family has the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

THE PACIFIC TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

FROM OUR READERS

Editor The Nugget:—

WISKERISMS

N. I. D. history is being made so rapidly these days that the average reader is in danger of becoming cockeyed trying to keep up with the status of the district from day to day.

First comes the word that Mr. Wisker has given notice of his resignation, then we learn that he has reconsidered it and will stick a while longer as the peoples' champion, in order to protect them from the avaricious wolves who seek to grab the $10,000,000 water rights of the dear people. Now, again he says he will resign if the people want him to, but we are quite certain that he will not because he has received three letters from Chicago Park begging him not to give up the ship even though she sinks. Well, so be it—but as far as the multimillionaire bandits are concerned, we don't think they will fight one another very much over what is left when Mr. Wisker ceases his vigil, because the remains will need a whole lot of rejuvenation before they will be able to function enough to be attractive in a financial way.

Then came news the other day that nearly proved fatal to those of us who have weak hearts. The Board of Directors actually whereased and resolved, that with the consent and approval of the Pacific Electric and Development Company, they would mutually and amicably, and with the full consent of Mr. Wisker, agree on a divorce. And this you understand requires great sacrifice on the part of the P. E. D. Co., for while it means life and perhaps—let us hope—health for the District, it means cruel and untimely death for the Company for it ceases to be a thing of life and promise as soon as it is separated from its parent.

But from the standpoint of the district's welfare the disunion should be as beneficial as the separation from a patient who has been anchored with a hundred pound tumor, and our olfactory sense will be as much relieved as though somebody had put the cover over the limberger, because the atmosphere is sweeter by far than it has been since December 20th 1926 when this corruptive child was, in secret, adopted by the board.

It is going to take considerable wire pulling in Washington however to undo the damage that the P. E. D. has done the district, because the Federal Power Commission and the Secretary of the Interior immediately saw through the thinly veiled and camouflaged claim of relationship to the district and classed the whole project as a power company, a franchise for which required a fee of $5,000 per annum for 50 years, or $250,000 for right of way over government lands.

Had the district not been encumbered with this so-called disguised employee it could, as an irrigation district, have secured the right of way without the payment of any fee whatsoever. So it was really necessary in this matter alone to divorce the P. E. D. in order to get a clean bill of health as an irrigation district preliminary to a reclassification at Washington, if the change can ever be made, which we understand is somewhat doubtful.

The whole set up of the P. E. D. is rather whimsical when it is analyzed from its inception. Here was the Pacific Gas & Electric who, according to Mr. Wisker's own statements was a sort of partner in the formation of the district, in fact it provided a good part of the ammunition which he used to put over the district, that had it not been for what he considered rather liberal payment for power by the P. G. & E. Co., to the extent of $400,000 per year over a term of 25 years, it would have been virtually impossible to finance the dsitrict.

Then Mr. Wisker, instead of cooperating with his partner who has helped him make the district possible, goes east and secretly forms a competitive company, railroads a gift power contract through his board of directors without giving anyone else a chance to bid on it and then springs the glad surprise on his partner and the dear people of the district. Is is to be wondered at that the P. G. & E. are holding Mr. Wisker right down to brass tacks on his contract?

POWELL SHIES CAUBEEN INTO POLITICAL CIRCLE

F. S. Powell, a long time resident of the Truckee section has shied his caubeen into the widening circle of those aspiring to represent the fifth supervisoral district of Nevada County. For the past twenty seven years he has been a resident of Truckee and has been deeply interested in its progress.

Mr. Powell was one of the leaders in the movement to provide Truckee with a municipally owned lighting system and spent much of his own time and money to bring about the formation of the utility district which has made this possible. He has been identified with every movement for the betterment of Truckee during his long years of residence. He was for a number of years employed as a stationary engineer in various sawmill plants of that section and as such became intimately acquainted with the different parts of the district.

He will spend his time acquainting the voters of his district with his aims and aspirations and proposes to devote his best efforts to the office of supervisor, should the people elect him to that office and he states that he will give his full time to the job. He looks to make a strong race.

NEW RATES MAKE ELECTRIC COOKING VERY ECONOMICAL

And then let the electric range do all the cooking

Every woman loves to cook—when the monotony of cooking is gone.

That is what the electric range does. It eliminates cooking monotony. Its harmonious white porcelain enamel makes kitchens attractive. Its perfect baking wins appetites. And its automatic time and temperature controls do the cooking while you're shopping or at the movies.

The oven of the new electric range heats up to 400 degrees in 9 to 11 minutes—as fast as one can mix biscuits. The open coil cooking elements are now made smaller to fit your pans. Heat that was formerly wasted goes to work. The result is, food cooks faster — less electricity is used.

See the new electric ranges today. Ask about our special low terms.
